Coronation, Bonfire Rally, Big Game Highlight Homecoming Activities

By Jan Davidson

The University of San Diego tonight will announce its homecoming queen for 1967.

To start the evening a coffin procession will move the Cal Western remains to the sight of the bonfire where a pep rally will be held. A discotheque will then take place in the Lark, where the queen and her court will be presented.

Homecoming activities will culminate tomorrow night when the Toreros meet Cal Western in the USD gym. The coronation of the queen will take place during halftime.

The presentation will be made by Steph DeSales, CM ASB president and Ed Brown, president of the Alumni Association.

Dance at Stardust

Students will then meet for the homecoming dance sponsored by the CM at the Stardust Country Club from 10:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Music will be provided by Aldridge Orchestra. The queen and her court will be presented again during the dance.

The CM freshman class chose Nancy Zak, 18, of Pasadena as its representative. Nancy was born in Los Angeles and enjoys water skiing and reading. Her goal is elementary education and she is using her English major toward her goal.

Katie Driskell, 20, of San Gabriel, the sophomore class candidate, is the most varied in her outside interests. The junior English major plays the piano, enjoys reading, sewing, swimming and raising cats.

Literary Club Member

She is a member of the literary club and spent her summer vacation working for a publishing company.

Sophomore Peggy Carr, 19, will represent the junior class. She is an English major and is on the Vista staff. Her outside interests include reading and writing poetry, collecting abstract pictures, and horseback riding. Peggy hopes to work in an orphanage after graduation. She was born in Washington, D.C. and now lives in Gardena.

The senior class asked Sandy Nardilillo to represent them in the competition. To add to her many talents, Sandy, 20, is the junior class social chairman, W.A.A. president and USD cheerleader. She is a sociology major who plans to go into government social work after graduation. Born in Maryland, Sandy now makes Santa Ana her home. She enjoys swimming and dancing.

Former Princess

Kathy Davis, 20, a junior English major, has been chosen by the Alpha Delta Gamma fraternity. Kathy is also the ADG Sweetheart for 1967 and held a position on the homecoming court last year.

She is co-chairman of SPEED and is a tour guide at Disneyland during the summer. She lives in Ontario. Her outside in-

Folk Masses, New Spirit Hit Campus

By Debbie Duggan and Connie Salovitch

Religious activities have been on an upward swing on campus.

CW students noticed the spirit of ecumenism with a difference during this year's retreat. Non-obligatory, the retreat was attended by interested students.

Folk Masses and an emphasis on dialogue intensified the retreat. By the middle of the first day, even the reserved had become enthusiastic participants. Father Olier of Santa Clara invited students to assist at Mass and moved everyone into the sanctuary during the Offertory and Consecration. The final Mass of the retreat was celebrated in the Rose Room.

Outside Movement

Private institutions are not alone in urging new thought on the role of religion in the student's life. Campus Crusade for Christ is an interdenominational student movement that was started at UCLA in 1951 by Dr. W. R. Bright. Its purpose is to make Christ of personal relevance to the college student.

The CW was represented at a Feb. 2 Leadership-Prayer Breakfast held in Santa Monica. The student representatives from the college were ASB recording secretary, Connie Salovitch, sophomore class president, Julie Bartek, and freshman president, Lynn Anderson.

Bright, the main speaker, outlined the Crusade's purpose and his statements were verified by former college leaders who had found strength in the Campus Crusade. Among these was Charles Powell, ASB President at Berkeley during the uprisings.

Unity in Prayer

In order to draw USD students into a life of prayerful dialogue, CW and CM students have been jointly sponsoring university hours.

The culmination of the effort was the "Ecumenical Morning" Wednesday. A special University Mass was celebrated in the Immaculata Chapel.

New Chaplain Named

By Sean Hughes

Rev. George Fee, CM chaplain since last September, has been appointed chaplain of San Diego County University Hospital.

The vacant post has been filled by Rev. H. A. McDonnell, M.A., who previously worked in the Knights of Columbus Memorial Library and taught history at the CM. Father McDonnell is in his office in More Hall most mornings and afternoons. He offers daily Mass Monday through Friday at noon in the Immaculata.

Some Grading Called Extreme

Fr. Cadden Gives Views On Accreditation Visit

By Ed Ostermeyer

Rev. President John Paul Cadden says he believes that some professors may have gone too far in tightening their grading this semester.

The accreditation board had stated that there were basically too many A's and B's given to the student body, which the committee considered average.

"This was basically a valid criticism," said Father Cadden, "but we want to avoid hurting students by extreme grading."

He also stated that, having reached one extreme, he expects the grades to level off somewhat.

"Upon release of the report, professors were asked to be more conscientious in their grading," he said. "Now we are asking them to become more realistic."

Frosh Hard Hit
The tightening of grades was felt deeply by the College for Men. According to Irving Parker, Dean of Admissions, 74 freshman students or about 30 per cent of the class are on academic probation.

Father Cadden made these other points in an interview this week while discussing the report, which extended the school's accreditation for another four years.

First, concerning the recommendation by the committee to establish a faculty senate, he stated that this is an instrument used by large colleges to consolidate faculty members.

Faculty Senate

"We aren't a large enough school to accept the basic plans of a faculty senate, but we will work on some alternate ideas," he said.

"In the last three years, the faculty has been given an excellent retirement plan, a faculty lounge, and by the fall, an ad hoc committee on tenure will have formulated a plan of tenure for the faculty."

Second, Father Cadden announced that as soon as the plan

Vista Is Your Newspaper

By Greg Bettencourt
Vista Editor

What have you done to help yourself this year?

Rome wasn't built in a day nor was it built by two or three individuals. This also holds true for a competent campus newspaper.

To be quite frank, we need your help. Unless we receive it the Vista will be cast aside like the other by-products of apathy that have been deposited there over the years.

But understand that along with the Vista will go all our chances for a future weekly or daily newspaper.

For this will be the last time, and justly so, that the administration will allow a campus newspaper to founder and die because of the lack of interest by responsible students.

This year's Vista has as its primary purpose the development of a nucleus around which next year's staff can form and work. This goal has been continually impeded in two ways.

First, the administration has not yet approved a workshop or a journalism class in which fundamentals can be taught and credit given for time and effort contributed.

Second, the students have not, for the most part, cooperated. We also admit an occasional lack of organization in the newspaper itself.

We hope to change both situations before the end of the year. We are asking the administration to initiate a workshop class this semester (one hour a week) with or without credit. This, in turn, would allow the Vista to become better organized.

Can you afford to spend just one hour a week in order to build one of the most integral parts of a true university? Don't wait for someone to come up and ask you to join the Vista staff, VOLUNTEER!

State of the Campus

ASB Presidents Outline Achievements, Goals

By Susan Bell

When one looks back over a partially completed administration there is much he sees that has been done and much that needs to be done. I have noticed this year that campaign promises many times cannot be carried out, due to an incorrect evaluation of the circumstances surrounding promising situations.

This is a fact that any politician or officer recognizes early in his administration. Most of the efforts for improvements made this year by my officers have been primarily administrative. Long-range goals cannot be realized (as I soon found out) without the proper administrative structures. Public relations, directed by Connie Salovitch, has been one area where much progress has been made.

We are also updating our constitution.

Originally I was very enthusiastic about keeping the senior class, especially day students, closely integrated in college life so that the freshmen would have a sense of unity. However, soon I found out that this was more of an individual thing than I had realized and that a different approach should be implemented. Perhaps it would be feasible to revive the Day Student Committee, which would bring representatives from all the classes of day students together to discuss their own peculiar problems apart from the residents. This will probably take place in the near future.

One area in which the ASB officers have been active is campus unity. We have taken great strides in some cases such as orientation (due largely to the sophomore classes) and yet it seems that in other areas such as cultural events we seem to stand pat. Guest speakers, for example, are invited by the individual colleges. There seems to be very little cooperation between the colleges in the drama-speech departments.

Other areas show some progress. The film forum is supposed to be run by both colleges on a cooperative basis. To some extent this is so. We get together to choose the films and we split the cost, but we need more cooperation concerning the discussion, which, after all, is the main purpose for having good films.

However, we must realize that this is a growing university and that not all things can be accomplished in a few months. Hopefully each member of the university will donate his talents to aid the ASB officers from each college in achieving their goals in making this a real university.

By Steph DeSales

This year the ASB has taken several bold steps forward in the development of a cohesive student government. For the first time, the decision-making process of the ASB was expanded to include more students.

In a unicameral Legislative Council—the ASB officers representatives of the student court, classes, resident students, fraternities, and seminars—met weekly to determine the policies directly affecting CM students and the university.

Under the guidance of the ASB officers, the accomplishments thus far are noteworthy and they include:

- A well-organized registration process.
- An effective orientation program.
- The publication of a student handbook.
- The sponsorship of the first successful major cultural event in several years—the Monterey Jazz Festival.
- The publication of a social calendar reflecting the interests of the entire student body and including the liberalization of the film forum and the innovation of a Homecoming Week tradition.
- The sponsorship of the first Parents' Day Open House.
- The initiation of a formal program of scholarship assistance for ASB officers and editors of all ASB-sponsored campus publications and the development of a program to offer academic credit for participation in these activities.
- Student representation on four standing faculty-administration committees.
- The development of a functional Student Court and Student Advisory Council.
- The first publication of an ASB budget, including provision for a cash surplus at the close of the Spring semester.
- The opening of a student lounge.
- The first audit of the ASB accounts and the initiation of the procedure of issuing monthly statements to all organizations.

Coin-Operated School Around the Corner?

By Jerry Dominelli

Things are going swimmingly at P.S. 458 since they started tuition. The principal, Dr. J. Irving Breakwater, is quite pleased with the results.

When did he decide to impose tuition?

"Good heavens," said Breakwater. "I didn't impose a tuition. I merely suggested it. After all, it's most unfair to make taxpayers pay to educate other people's children. So I cut off public funds. But I told my teachers if they could find some other way to pay their salaries and purchase supplies without imposing a tuition, I would be delighted. They couldn't."

Yes, but California has long had a tradition of free public education.

"We must not let tradition," he said with a frown, "stand in the way of progress. How else can we ever hope to put education on a paying basis?"

I told Breakwater his economies must be quite popular with the vast majority of taxpayers who had no children in P.S. 458. But what of the quality of the education?

"Far higher," he said firmly. "Paying a tuition builds character. Take little Mario here. A born troublemaker all through kindergarten. But now he's so busy selling papers and shining shoes, he hasn't got time to hang around the schoolyard stirring up a fuss."

"Please, Dr. Breakwater," said the short-haired lad, "could I have another bowl of cereal?"

"No credit, Mario. It corrupts your self-reliance," said Breakwater. "Our new Hot School Meal Program will never pay its way if we have to carry a bunch of deadbeats."

As the lad tottered off, Breakwater opened the door of a classroom. "Oh, it's finger-painting period," he said.

They certainly are painting their fingers interesting colors, I said.

"Paper's expensive," he explained. "Now in this room the class is reading a book."

I said I hoped those in the back of the crowd had good vision. Couldn't each afford to buy a book?

"We don't sell books," he said. "We lend them to the children from our library. At ten cents a day."

"Please, Dr. Breakwater," said a blonde girl raising her hand, "may I be excused?"

"Certainly, Bettina," he said. "And here's change for your quarter. Remember, no more sneaking under the door."

Out in the yard, a group of raggedly dressed fifth graders was playing ball with a crumple of newspapers bound in twine. "How creative," said Breakwater. "Necessity is indeed the mother of invention. Oh, how well our profit-making program is molding them to take their place in our society. Isn't that so?"

Well, I said frankly, I couldn't see where depriving children of a free education would help our free society.

"I was referring to our Creative Society," said Breakwater. "And whatever it is, it isn't free."

Letter to the Editor

Staffs Need Aid, Not Criticism

By Tom La Puzza

Anyone in search of adverse criticism of USD would not have to go far. A short walk through the halls of the CM during a class break would provide him with all the complaints and criticism he desired.

The University undoubtedly has its problems, a large part of which are unknown by a majority of students. If for nothing else, we can thank the editors of the Green Knight for their satirical, but nevertheless sometimes accurate sketch of needed corrections.

I feel that these problems are due in a large part to the student body. An affirmation of this statement can be seen in the lack of student interest in the various university publications.

An examination of the Vista staff would show that there are fewer than 10 active members, and usually the number is closer to five. On the staff of the literary magazine there are five members, several of whom are certain to play little or no part in the actual preparation for publication of the Pequod. Three men compose the staff of the annual, which has the extremely inappropriate title of All The Men.

We may then state that, out of a total enrollment at the CM in excess of 400, approximately 15 persons produce all the publications. And the figure is really smaller since several of these serve on the staff of more than one publication.

There is, however, an abundance of unfavorable criticism from the student body in general about these publications. Common complaints are the lack of quality in the annual, the tardiness of publication of the Pequod, and the occasional irregularity of the Vista.

All of these problems can be traced back to the students and their apparent unwillingness to use their own abilities to improve the publication.

Greg Bettencourt, editor of the Vista, probably gave the best picture of the situation when he said, "The newspaper can't be worthwhile unless we have qualified reporters, and we won't have good reporters until the paper is improved."

Without attempting to moralize, I will merely point out the obvious conclusion. A good staff will make a publication, or any other organization for that matter, valuable long before the publication becomes valuable by itself.

Bob Keyes

USD Grad Named Aide to Reagan

Bob Keyes, a 1962 graduate of the College for Men, has been appointed as a special assistant in the office of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Keyes, 30, will aid the governor in the area of human relations. He was graduated from USD with a degree in business administration.

He was captain of the football team as a junior. A Marine Corps veteran, he played for the San Francisco 49'ers and the Oakland Raiders.

Keyes formerly taught at Marian High School and St. Augustine before joining the Continental Assurance Co. in 1963.

Bach-Off Key

The new semester has ushered in many new sights at USD, among which is the "Road Runner" commonly known as the gas-eating PONDER. The freshman detective squad at the CW is working to solve the mystery of the open doors! One master sleuth, Kathy O'Boyle, resorted to footprint detection devices. Does "Falcon" John Briskey have an ulterior motive for dating Cheryl Fraser?

Betencourt-Payne went on hair cutting spree—he the mustache; she the golden locks! The good grooming contest at the CW is arousing heated arguments among the students. Competition runs high between Mary Jean Zolezzi, Lisa Colini, Margaret Mahoney and Helen Scutt. But Mother Lorch is pulling for Fran Harrington, Kappy O'Mara, Ellen Curtin, Margaret "Cullotte" Albright, and other notable sophomore clothes horses!

We all hope that "Alfie" soon comes to the USD film forum as Tom LaPuzza and his two sidekicks, Mary Searcy and Peggy Carr will be able to competently host a moving discussion. Is it true that the TKEs change colors at the stroke of midnight? Stockholders in Bethlehem Steel Co. face a crisis after the removal of Liz Coleman's metallic smile. Has the "Truck" really dumped on his study habits because of an unforeseen "traffic jam"?

Frats Announce Rush Schedule

By Pete Pitard

This past week opened up a busy month for the three fraternities on campus.

Alpha Delta Gamma will begin its rush functions with a TGIF today.

The ADG's will sponsor a smoker at the Islandia Motel Feb. 26. Brothers and guests will hear talks about the fraternity from Coach Phil Woolpert; Steve Nordick, national ADG president; and Rev. Terence Van Orshoven, the national ADG moderator. March 4, weather permitting, the fraternity plans to hold an all-day beach party.

Phi Kappa Theta opened its rush with a dinner at the Chuck Wagon. About 100 persons attended and heard talks given by Rev. I. Brent Eagen, fraternity chaplain, brothers Mike and John Cihak, and brothers Mike Doyle and Jack Kennedy. A stag function is scheduled March 24 and a costume party is planned later.

Tau Kappa Epsilon's annual "Mickie Finn Goes Las Vegas Night" was the first rush function of the semester. TKE also is planning to have its bi-annual Preferential Dinner as their last rush function for the semester.

Pequod Is Sent To Publisher

By Tom LaPuzza

The Pequod, CM literary magazine, went to the publisher today. Dr. Lee Gerlach, the faculty adviser, said the magazine should be ready for distribution to students March 6.

Pequod sponsored a reading of German poetry Feb. 3 by Dr. Wilm Pelters of the University of California, Irvine. Another reading — this one by Miss Marshall of the English Department — is scheduled next Friday. She will read excerpts from modern verse drama.

Pequod will sponsor another art exhibit in the library next Friday through March 17. Featured will be etchings by Chagall, Daumier, Matisse, Picasso, and Renoir. The highlight of the show will be a one-day sale of art work on Friday.

Writing Workshop Set

The first in a series of weekly workshops in creative writing was held last Wednesday.

Dr. Lee Gerlach, the instructor, said the workshop will meet each Wednesday at 2:00, and is open to all those interested in creative writing. The session is aimed especially at those interested in entering the short story and poetry contest or in writing for the Pequod. All others are welcome.

Camelot Dance Set for Feb. 26

By Anne Dougherty

Music from Camelot will greet the 350 guests at the annual dinner-dance sponsored by the CW freshman class Feb. 26.

The catered dinner will be served in the Rose Room, which will be decorated with motifs of King Arthur's court. Music will be provided by "The Innocents." The theme was chosen by a committee headed by Jean Karlan. Joan Shoop is chairman of the decoration committee.

Invitations will be sent to the CM, Law School, Newman clubs of the local colleges and naval officers by a committee headed by Karrie Yurich. The menu will be planned by Toni Pulone and her committee.

Fr. Cadden Discusses Accreditation

is approved by the Bishop, a board of lay trustees will be formed. The members of this board would consist of prominent members of the community who would be able to invest endowments and trust funds.

Third, Father Cadden announced that, beginning next year, there will be a committee of faculty and administration to appoint members of all CM committees. The report said the power of appointments to each committee should not rest with the Administrative Council.

Debt Mounts

Fourth, concerning the debt of the College, he stated: "The College for Men now meets 35 per cent of its operating costs from tuition; the remaining amount must be borrowed from the Bishop."

"Last year, USC's alumni contributed $4 million to that institution. Our alumni cannot possibly do this; they are young and just getting started in the business world. Until a time, maybe 20 years from now when we will be able to receive large amounts from alumni contributors, we will have to draw on the small sum in our trust fund, and ask for aid from the diocese."

Last year the school borrowed $250,000 from the diocese.

Student Union

Fifth, concerning the recommendation of a student union, he stated:

"Both the accreditation board and we are extremely concerned with this situation. We are losing money daily on the apartments which we have rented off campus this year, and which we will be forced to rent on an even greater scale next year."

"I sincerely hope that we can show definite plans for such a structure in the very near future. How can we draw out-of-town students to the campus, promising them facilities that we simply don't have?"

In summary, he stated: "We were basically very pleased with the report. It was heartwarming to see an acknowledgement of our progress over the past three years."

"Its two basic criticisms were the Knights of Columbus Library and the imbalance of some general education requirements. In these areas, we realize our weaknesses, and shall have to work diligently in the near future to correct these situations."

"The general education requirements shall have to go through a revamping by the college committees and we have a very competent librarian now to begin work on that task," he said.

"All things considered, the outlook for the next four years is good."

Accreditation Highlights

TRUSTEES — "At the present time, all members of the board of trustees are clergymen. However, the committee was pleased to know that serious consideration is being given to the appointment of laymen."

COMMITTEES — "Due to the fact that the President appoints all committee members, college policy may not always reflect the opinion of the faculty at large."

ENROLLMENT — "It is our opinion that the College would benefit through an increase to about 800 students."

STUDENT UNION — "A new student union would be most useful."

DEBT — "For several years, funds have been contributed by the diocese to make up for college deficits. . . the diocese supplied a fund of over $250,000 in the 13 months ending July 31, 1966, compared with normal . . . $90,000."

GYM — "There is a definite need for increased seating facilities for spectator sports and the floor of the gym needs refurbishing."

LIBRARY — "Areas that are still weak include political science, business, physical science, psychology, national and local government documents."

COURSES — "The weakest spot in the new program remains an overbalance in philosophy and religion, which takes too great a share of the time a student needs to explore his academic world. Comment from several sources gave evidence that some of the required courses in philosophy laid undue emphasis on religious and doctrinal matters."

GRADES — "After surveying the distribution of course grades in the College for the past several years, the committee believes there has been a significantly greater than normal percentage of A's and B's . . . carried to extremes in certain departments (biology, education, and speech)."

GRADUATE SCHOOL — "Considering the student enrollment and the library facilities we feel that the College should proceed with considerable caution in expanding into new fields. The committee believes that the college should not offer a graduate degree program for some time."

COOPERATION — "The function of a university is to bring together a group of colleges. The advantages of cooperation may be obvious, but unless true sharing of resources occurs, the university is but a hollow name . . ."

Westerner Showdown Near

By Bill Hall

The University of San Diego will host the Cal Western University tomorrow night in USD's homecoming. Game time is 8:00.

The Westerners own a better record than the Toreros, but Coach Bob Kloppenburg isn't showing loads of confidence. Cal Western is 18-8 and USD, winners of five straight games, is 12-8.

Cal Western has won 9 of the previous 16 meetings. USD has won four of the last six.

"Cal Western, because of the tradition, is always a fine team," reports Coach Phil Woolpert. "This year they have a good ball club that is well-balanced."

Both teams are bidding for national playoffs.

Woolpert admitted that the homecoming game figures to be a toss-up. "But spirit," he added, "will certainly help us. It will be a plus-factor for us."

The Toreros will match the Westerners with a team that, according to Woolpert, "has been playing much better team ball lately."

Since returning from the road trip in Montana, where USD picked up four of its losses, the Toreros have posted a 7-1 record, including last weekend's wins. On their home court this season, the Toreros have won seven of eight and they'll play host tomorrow.

Gus Magee, whose persuasive manner with the opposition doesn't always charm the officials, has had his foul troubles, but still the 6-6 center has contributed valuable tipins and forceful rebounding in many games.

Durel Carpenter, 6-5, has saved the Toreros more than once. His basket with two seconds left enabled the Toreros to tie and eventually to beat Loyola in overtime.

Rick Cabrera and Ted Fields, who were teammates on the 1964 all San Diego College Frosh squad, are still together and scoring well against the enemy defense. Fields with a 17.2 average for 20 games and Cabrera with 15.3, are the only Toreros averaging in the double figures.

Tomorrow night will see Fields and Bill Sheridan, who reigned as the Union-Tribune's San Diego area college Players of the Week three weeks ago, start at the guard positions. Cabrera and Alan Fay, the only senior on the USD squad and a starter since his sophomore year, will start as forwards. Either Carpenter or Magee, both sophomores, will start at center.

Soaring Freshman Team Reaching For A Record

By Pat McCartney

After proving themselves as one of USD's finest freshman squads, the Torero frosh are aiming for a record-breaking 18 wins this year.

The team won two games last weekend and boosted its record to 16-4.

They travel to Los Angeles tonight to face the AAU Los Caballeros, whom the Toreros lost to earlier 84-82.

In a 6:00 Homecoming Game tomorrow night, the Toreros will host a good Cal Western team. The two clubs split four games last year. The Westerners host the Toreros Tuesday in a rematch.

The frosh will finish their season next weekend with away games against Cal Poly, Pomona, and the University of California at Irvine. Both games will be 5:45 preliminaries to the varsity games. The frosh defeated Cal Poly 68-51 in this season's opener. Irvine downed the Toreros 61-57 in their only meeting last year.

Neal Schram continues to lead the team in scoring, averaging 14.4 points a game. Behind him are Jeff Filzenger, 13.6; Mike Windle, 13.2; and Bob Gamble, 10.8. Windle is the team's leading rebounder, averaging 10.8 a game, while Filzenger has grabbed an average of 9.5 a game.

Cal Western will be facing a team that has averaged 81.2 points a game, and has held its opponents to 66.7 points a game, meanwhile compiling the second best record in school history. After homecoming, it may have the best.
